Myrmex Report Bundle Summary Sheet

Context

Tackling the environmental and social performance of your supply chain can initially be perceived as a daunting task: not only does it require opening new communication channels with your suppliers requesting non-business related data, it also requires rigor and precision to manage a broad data set while each party feeds you with dozens of answers you then need to consolidate.

Many organisations don't know where to start, which framework they should opt for, and how they should initiate the approach with their supply chain partners. This is where Myrmex and this report bundle come in to help.

What this report bundle is about

Myrmex proposes an incremental approach to let organisations progress on the environmental and social maturity track. This Basic Supplier Scorecard is a simple off-the-shelf starting point for your supply chain queries, letting you quickly map suppliers on a broad range of issues through a limited number of key sustainability-related questions.

You may even apply this report template to your own organisation (internal mode), to position yourself and become familiar with its content. Once done, you can query your suppliers too.

The report questionnaire is broken into 6 sections:

1. General information
2. Economics
3. Environment
4. Human
5. Social
6. Supply chain maturity

When filled in, the basic report produces one score per section (based on the number of points obtained for each answer, and then expressed in the form of a percentage), as well as a global score for the entire questionnaire averaging scores obtained in each section.

When several queried organizations have filled the questionnaire, these scores will also enable the production of consolidated reports such as supplier's summary, supplier sustainability leader board, and supplier's performance report for each section. You can then use these reports to make informed decisions each time you need to buy supplies or when you want to engage with suppliers sharing your commitments about sustainability.

You can query your suppliers whenever you want on a yearly term (period) and all reports are dynamically updated each time the questionnaire is amended. Eventually the consolidated reports can be shared with trusted suppliers for them to improve their performance.
